

Issue 12: Classifications vs Code Lists

What is a real life example of the difference between a Classification and a Code List?

GSIM documents that there is a difference between the two, but when you get right down to it, where do you draw this line?

In your opinion, what is the boundary between a Code List and a Classification?